20,000 Drivers Halt Road Movements; CIO Rejects GM Wage Offer.

By The Associated Press

AFL truck drivers struck at midnight in eight middle western states and a union business agent declared over-the-road movements were tied up in the area.

Fred Snyder, Minneapolis local business agent, estimated about 20,000 were affected. This would bring to 295,000 the number of persons off the job throughout the nation because of labor disputes.

States in the region affected by the truckers walkout are Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas and some of Wisconsin

Secretary Lou Hosking of the Midwest Truck Operators association, management organization, said the unions had refused to negotiate Snyder said the walkout resulted from a "breakdown in negotiations for a new contract."

Elsewhere labor disputes kept idle some 275,000 workers Attention remained centered in Detroit and the wage controversy between the CIO United Automobile Workers and the motor industry's "Big Three"

Reject GM Offer

A new proposal by General Motors to the union's demands for a 30 per cent wage rate hike was a 10 per cent increase above current levels for all hourly-rated employes The offer was rejected by the union as a "streamlined approach to the inflation"

A union leader charged Chrysler Corp with being 'hell bent towards destroying genuine collective bargaining relations," after the company requested the right to discharge or discipline workers

VOTE RECOUNT REQUEST FILED

First Step Taken in Move To Recheck School Issue Ballots.

A request for an official recount of votes cast in the Nov. 6 election of the city school bond issue was filed with the board of elections this morning

Filing of the request is the first step in an effort to find the needed votes to give the bond issue the needed 65 per cent majority.

With the request was accompanied the $320 deposited by the Marion Civic Planning group to pay for the recount at the rate of $10 a precinct. The recount will cover all 30 Marion precincts and the two Marion township precincts, parts of which are in the city school district

The request was signed by five qualified electors of the school district. They are Wilfred Schaffner, James C Woods, Harley F. Lewis, Mrs Ruth S. Wiant and Mrs. Pauline D Newell.

Addressed to James F Lauer, chairman of the board of elections, the request follows

> "Inasmuch as the official tally of votes cast on the school bond issue was so close and since there is reason to expect that some unintentional errors may have been made, we, the undersigned qualified electors of the Marion city school district, do hereby petition you to cause an official recount to be made of all precincts within this school district
> "Inclosed you will find $320 which we are depositing with you pending the result of the recount."

The board of elections will meet Monday night at headquarters here to make plans and set a date for starting the recount. It is estimated that at least three days will be required to check the ballots.

SPLIT FORCES CALLED THREAT BY EISENHOWER

Warns of New Emergency Like Pearl Harbor Without Joint Command.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 16 — General Eisenhower said today that unless the armed services are placed under a unified command "we may enter another emergency, in a time to come, as we did at Pearl Harbor"

The European theater commander told the senate military committee in prepared testimony "this nation must preserve a balanced, adequate measure of our land, sea and air power lest we lose the peace"

In World War II, he said, the United States had to achieve the change from joint to unified command "the hard way" He added

"Our efforts would have met with failure without unity of direction"

Shortly before Eisenhower testified, Senator Hill (D-Ala) said Admiral Chester W Nimitz, Pacific Navy commander who flew to Washington for a Naval conference, would appear before the committee Saturday.

Nimitz is expected to enlarge upon Navy arguments against any merger of the armed forces.

Had A Hard Time

Eisenhower said unity of land, sea and air forces under his command "was not easily achieved" He added "separation at the top necessarily fosters separation all along the line"

Eisenhower went on:

"I am told that the task of the civilian secretary, who would preside over such a department, is beyond the capacity of any man. If this were true, then no man has the capacity to assume the presidency of the United States"

As to statements that creation of a single department would subordinate one service to another, he commented that the result in Africa and Europe "proved such fears to be groundless"

Hits German Plan

To arguments that Germany had a single military department and yet lost the war, Eisenhower replied

"The successive chiefs of the German general staff were never able to achieve anything approaching unity of direction of the three components of the Nazi fighting machine"

Eisenhower concluded.

"It is not feasible to arrive at the size of compositions of each arm without simultaneously considering the others * * *

"The era of atomic weapons, pilotless missiles makes unity of concept, indoctrination and training more necessary than ever.

Coordinate Weapons

"* * * only through a single department can coordinated development of new weapons be assured.

"There is the absolute need for economy in administration."

"By unification at the top we emphasize to our soldiers, sailors and airmen the essential truth that each wears the uniform of the nation's fighting forces and that his natural friends and trusted associates are the others who wear that uniform, regardless of its color or design"

Views on Next War

Gen. Eisenhower said yesterday that if he thought another war was inevitable, he wouldn't be here.

"I would have jumped right out of my plane over the Atlantic," he told the house military committee in answer to a question.

He said he thinks peacetime universal military training is essential.

BOISE FAILED TO GIVE REPORT PROBER SAYS

G.O.P. Member Says Cruiser Wouldn't Break Radio Silence To Give Alarm.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 16 — Republicans today raised the question whether the American cruiser Boise sighted at sea the Japanese force which attacked Pearl Harbor but failed to report it because of orders for "radio silence"

Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif), member of the senate-house committee investigating the disaster, asked that Rear Admiral T B Inglis, a witness, investigate to determine "whether the officers and crew of the Boise sighted the attacking Japanese fleet during the first week of December

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) asked that Inglis supply the committee with the complete record of the Boise's movements in the period immediately prior to the Dec. 7, 1941, attack

Inglis agreed to the requests

Gearhart said he had received information the Boise did see the Japanese force

Says There Was Fight

"My information is that there was a fight aboard the Boise over whether they should break orders for radio silence and report it and the captain decided they should not," he added

The second day of testimony brought these other developments

Disclosure that the Navy had ordered the convoying of merchant vessels in the Pacific 14 days before the Japanese attack.

A suggestion by Gearhart that Gen Douglas MacArthur had been ordered in the Philippines not to fire on the Japanese until they fired first.

A further suggestion by Gearhart that it was "strangely significant" that radar on the Hawaiian island of Oahu had been ordered shut down at 7 a m, an hour he said was recognized as the most propitious for attack

Gearhart's criticism of what he said was "hearsay" evidence presented by Col Bernard Thielen and Admiral Inglis on behalf of the war and navy department plunged the hearing into controversy

The Californian asked Thielen if he knew whether any orders had been issued at Pearl Harbor or in Washington directing American forces not to fire on Japanese vessels or installations until fired upon

Denies Knowledge

"Don't you know that such an order was issued to General MacArthur?" Gearhart asked

Thielen said he had no knowledge of it

"Is that the reason they have you people come up here to read hearsay testimony to us so that when we ask you a question you can answer that you don't know?" demanded Gearhart

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) broke into to object that the committee had agreed to receive a narrative account of the actual Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Gearhart said he never agreed to any such thing. Senator [illegible] and [illegible] (R-[illegible]) said they hadn't either.

Navy Not Prepared To Fight, Says King

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—The Navy's chief of operations told a congressional committee today that the United States Navy is not now prepared to fight a major battle if it were necessary to do so.

The statement was made by Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King in response to questions by house military committee members after he had endored universal military training legislation.

King had commented that the rate of demobilization of the Navy had resulted in disintegration of units.

Has To Say Yes

Asked by Rep. Leroy Johnson (R-Calif) if the disorganization was such as to render the Navy unable "to fight a major battle," immediately if necessary, King replied.

"I'm afraid I will have to say 'yes'."

Many key men in units have bene demobilized, the admiral explained, and have not been replaced. While fighting units may be up to their usual complement in actual numbers of men, he pointed out, these complements do no constitute what the Navy knows as "ships companies."

Fleets Not Dead

Earlier King told the committee the atomic bomb in its present form "cannot prevent fleets from operating."

Supporting President Truman's request for universal military training legislation, the five-star admiral said he believed it essential that "our fleet be capable of prompt expansion from peace strength to war strength."

Need Trained Reserve

"There is no way to accomplish that save through the existence of a trained reserve," he said. "I do not think a sufficient and efficient reserve is possible save under universal military training."

Atomic Proposal Called History's Top Peace Offer

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The atomic energy proposal of the United States, Britain and Canada is the most striking peace offer of history.

Had Hitler, even after defeat was treading on his heels, acquired this knowledge and been able to produce atomic bombs, he still could have conquered the world. And yet the United States, England and Canada, being first in possession of this terrific weapon, are asking other nations to join with them in rendering it innocuous.

D. Mackenzie

Will this offer be accepted? I think a good deal depends on how much suspicion or heart-burning has been developed abroad since the first atomic bomb to be used in war was dropped on Hiroshima.

Of course the proposal is directed mainly towards Russia. It's the old question of Big Three solidarity again. If Moscow agrees, then we can feel assured that the world is rolling along the broad highway of lasting peace. For as the all-powerful Big Three go, so will go the rest of mankind as things now stand.

Have What It Takes

This is so because, as so often said, the Big Three have the physical strength to enforce peace against all odds. There in its essence we have the real defense against the atomic giant—the prevention of war. President Truman, and Prime Minister Attlee and Mackenzie King recognized this principle in their statement when they pointed out that the only complete protection for civilization against the destructive use of scientific knowledge "lies in the prevention of war."

We can pin the thing down even closer than that, for prevention of war depends on a change in the heart of man. We can yell our heads off about peace, and create enough organizations to carpet the whole globe, but all that won't matter a tinker's dam if we haven't accepted the golden rule as our guiding light.

This obviously is a critical moment. Peace is walking the tightrope.

I like General Eisenhower's attitude on this question. Testifying yesterday before the house military committee in Washington he declared that if he thought another war was inevitable he wouldn't be there.

"I would have jumped right out of my plane over the Atlantic," he said.

He knows better than most do the elements which went into the making of the last war. So it's good to see him take this stand.

All May Be Okay

General Ike also said, in the course of his testimony in support of universal military training, that "Russia has no slightest thing to gain by war with the United States" and wants to be a friend. To this he added that "there never will be a war between Great Britain and the United States." Well, there you have the all-powerful and dominant Big Three.

There's another outstanding point in the Washington declaration on atomic energy. America, Canada and Britain agree that the details of manufacturing the atomic bomb will be withheld until safeguards which are acceptable to all nations have been devised. The information will be kept secret until it's certain that it won't be used for purposes of war.

Says U. S. Ship Saw Jap Fleet

tor Ferguson (R-Mich) established that at least two convoys were on the Pacific the week before the Japanese attack. He asked Inglis if any German submarines or surface vessels were in those waters and the admiral said he thought not.

Ferguson questioned Inglis about the preparation of his statement before the committee yesterday. Inglis gave then what he described as a factual amount of the actual Japanese attack.

It developed that some portions of the original draft of the testimony had been deleted by Inglis at the suggestion of the Navy judge advocate general's office and after consultation with counsel for the investigating committee.

Inglis testified that as a result of these suggestions he had cut out a paragraph which he said suggested "that the nation as a whole was not unified before Pearl Harbor." He said he thought this had contributed to lack of preparedness on the part of the Army and Navy.

People At Fault Too

"Do you think the people were to blame for Pearl Harbor?" Ferguson demanded.

"My opinion is that that did contribute somewhat to Pearl Harbor," the witness replied.

A Japanese message to Tokyo intercepted nearly a month before Pearl Harbor described the late President Roosevelt as believing then Japan would be "on the move soon."

This came to light today as the congressional inquiry into the military disaster entered its second day of public hearings.

The message, sent by Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura on Nov. 10, 1941, quoted "a certain cabinet member" as having told him that Mr. Roosevelt and the then secretary of state, Cordell Hull, did not believe the impending "peace" conferences would alter the tense diplomatic situation.

The peace conferences were shortly to begin with Nomura and special envoy Saburo Kurusu representing the Japanese government.

Army Men Quizzed

Turning to Col. Bernard Thielen, who gave what he termed a "narrative statement" for the Army yesterday, Ferguson asked whether Thielen had submitted his statement to William D. Mitchell, the committee counsel, prior to his presentation.

Thielen replied that last Monday he had read Mitchell excerpts from it.

Referring to the arrival of a flight of B-17 American planes from the mainland during the Japanese attack, Ferguson asked:

"Do you know whether the B-17s were equipped with radar? Do you know whether they had radios?"

Thielsen said he presumed they had radios but not radar.

"Do you know whether a radio station played Hawaiian music all night so that the B-17s could home on it and that the Jap planes homed on it too?" Ferguson asked.

"I do not know that," Thielen replied.

"Dear Friend of Mine"

In a message decoded by U. S. Army intelligence two days after it was sent, Nomura said that on Nov. 9 a cabinet member had talked to him. Without naming him, the Japanese ambassador quoted the cabinet official:

"You are indeed a dear friend of mine and I tell this to you alone. The American government is receiving a number of reliable reports that Japan will be on the move soon. The American government does not believe that your visit on Monday to the President or the coming of Mr. Kurusu will have any effect on the general situation."

When Nomura protested that neither the Japanese government nor its people desired a war with the United States, the cabinet member was quoted as replying:

"Well, our boss, the President, believes those reports and so does the secretary of state."

The Nomura message was sent after the ambassador had been advised by Tokyo that Nov. 25 was the deadline for concluding negotiations with the United States.

To Get Jap Version

The committee opened its formal hearings yesterday with testimony of Army and Navy witnesses on the actual attack made by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. Today the committee was promised a review of the Japanese version of the attack.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) drove yesterday at the point that Adm. Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, had ordered Hawaii-bound shipping rerouted to the south almost two weeks before the Japanese attack.

Ferguson indicated his questions were designed to show there was advance knowledge in Washington of the possibility of attack.

There remained little doubt, after yesterday's presentation of intercepted Japanese messages, that official Washington knew Japan was on the verge of going to war.

The United States armed forces had broken the Japanese diplomatic code by Aug. 8, 1941.

The Japanese were reporting in detail the movements of the U. S. Pacific fleet and continued reporting it until the day before the attack.

They ordered their code books and machines destroyed Dec. 2.

Saw Allied Threat

They apparently believed the United United States and Great Britain were preparing to occupy the Netherlands East Indies and they were prepared to attack in that area.

The Japanese told their Axis allies as early as the last week in November that negotiations with the United States were broken off and got German and Italian promises to join with them if they went to war against the Americans.

Nomura and Kurusu were told by Tokyo in a Nov. 28 message the Navy translated the same day that the negotiations with the United States actually were being broken off but told him not to give that impression here.

SHOTGUN BARGAINING LAID TO LABOR REDS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16—"Shotgun bargaining and collective coercion" have replaced "true collective bargaining" because of a "communistic minority" within the ranks of organized labor, Louis Ruthenburg, president of Servel, Inc., said today.

In an address prepared for the annual convention of the National Metal Trades association, the Evansville, Ind., manufacturer declared "labor is being increasingly victimized by the Communists' subtle and effective technique of boring from within."

Ruthenburg called on "an aroused and informed public opinion" to demand that congress:

"Revise the Wagner act, preserving labor's equitable rights of organizing for collective bargaining, but balancing every unfair labor practice for which the employer is held responsible by an equally weighed practice for which organized labor must assume responsibility.

Enact such legislation as may be needed to rescind all of organized labor's immunities and special privileges under all laws of the land, not excluding anti-monopoly measures, tax laws and all other laws which apply to business corporations."

Ruthenburg charged that "wholly inconsistent with the spirit of the Wagner act," courts have granted labor immunity from various provisions of the law affecting monopoly, intimidation, extortion and riotous assembly."

DUTCH CALL PARLEY TO END JAVA STRIFE

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Nov. 16—Hubertus J. Van Book, acting governor general of the Netherlands East Indies, called upon the New Indonesian Nationalist cabinet tonight to meet him at the earliest possible moment, in an effort to save Indonesia from further bloodshed and threatened famine.

Indonesian resistance officially was reported to be slackening at battered Soerabaja before the assault of tanks, guns and planes of the slowly advancing British Indian troops.

An official British summary today said there was "nothing to report" on the situation at Soerabaja.

(The Hilversum radio quoted a dispatch of the Dutch news agency Aneta as saying 3,000 British-Indian troops landed on Sumatra without Indonesian opposition and began rounding up Japanese. The dispatch said "it is hoped a second Java will be prevented.")

Premier Sutan Sjahrir of the unrecognized republic is reported to have taken the view that the Dutch have offered nothing definite enough for consideration by the Indonesians.

It was believed that British diplomacy contemplates in its long range view a regional commission of Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the United States to serve as arbitrators or trustees.

The new Dutch Information Service reported today 216 persons had disappeared in the Batavia area and said all were believed to have been kidnaped by Indonesian nationalists.

FEDERAL "CLEAN-UP" BILL NEARING VOTE

By The Associated Press

While congressional committees are searching for information on military matters, the senate has put some noise and heat in its debate over government reorganization.

The final vote may come today on a bill to give the President authority to do a clean-up job on the federal structure. Yesterday the senate by a 37-26 vote agreed with the house that reorganization orders issued by the President should go into effect unless vetoed by both the senate and house.

Late yesterday, Senator Tydings (D-Md) sailed into the debate with a demand that Mr. Truman be allowed to do a real job for economy's sake.

Tydings said not a single agency ought to be exempted from reorganization.

Two Republicans, Taft of Ohio and Donnell of Missouri, contended Tydings was inconsistent because in 1939 he opposed a similar grant of authority to the late President Roosevelt.

Tydings said Taft and Donnell were more inconsistent than he, because they demanded economy and yet sought to tie Mr. Truman's hands.

TURKEYS PLENTIFUL FOR THANKSGIVING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—Tom turkey, absent from many of the nation's holiday festive boards in wartime, will be vailable in large quantities for the first peace-time Thanksgiving dinner in four years.

There are millions of turkeys—this year's enlarged crop totaled 44,150,000—and there will be plenty available in almost every section of the country for next Thursday's holiday feast. The crop is 22 per cent greater than a year ago and 44 per cent more than the 10-year average.

Prices stand near ceiling in some areas despite the increased supplies. Turkey hungry consumers are buying the birds as they come to market, instead of waiting for the holidays.

In most areas, an abundance of chickens also was reported.

MILITARY TRAINING SPLITS FARM BUREAU

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 16 — Winding up its 27th annual convention, the Ohio Farm Bureau peacefully approved 95 resolutions on state, federal and international affairs, but split sharply on the subject of compulsory military training.

A spirited debate over the military question flared in yesterday's closing session of the convention, but the organization adopted a resolution opposing such training by a vote of two to one.

Opponents argued the resolution was not representative of the majority of American farmers' feelings. Supporters contended an expression of opinion was needed to be consistent with another motion which declared that for any United Nations organization member to continue an expanded militarization program alone would create "suspicion between nations" and "admit lack of faith in collective world security."

Among the 95 measures approved was one recommending the merging of all state conservation activities into one department.

The bureau board of trustees reelected present officers and chose President Perry L. Green of Mantua, Max M. Scraff of New Carlisle, W. E. Stough of Mansfield, and George H. Dunlap of Cadiz as delegates to the national Farm Bureau convention in Chicago next month.

HINT MYSTERY BABY DAUGHTER OF HITLER

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, Nov. 16—Pictures of Eva Braun, Hitler and a baby girl identified only as "Uschi," discovered in an album tucked away with Eva's fabulous treasure, posed an interesting mystery today for American intelligence officers, who hinted the full story of the treasure was yet to be told.

The treasure chest was found yesterday.

The announcement called Eva Hitler's supposed wife. There had been reports that the couple had at least one child, although British intelligence investigators had concluded Hitler and Eva were married only the day before they were believed to have died together in the chancellory of burning Berlin.

Besides thousands of dollars in American bills, valuable jewelry and extremely valuable silver, there was a diary, evidently Eva's which referred frequently to her "undying love" for Hitler.

Her pictures showed herself, Hitler and the blonde baby girl in many poses, from the child's infancy until she appeared to be about three years old in the last snapshots dated 1944. Often the line written under the picture would read: "And here is Uschi again."

Presidents All Pepped Up for Tonight's Grid Finale

Five Seniors in Last Battle Determined To Put Springfield Wildcats in Cage.

Harding's Presidents will place the lid on the 1945 football campaign tonight at Harding Stadium when they play host to the Springfield Wildcats with kickoff scheduled for 8 o'clock. The Prexies are all keyed up and rarin' to go in this final contest of the year.

Five Harding seniors don the Prexy football togs for the last time. These boys are Dick Holliday, end, Paul Daum, tackle, Dave Lee, center, Ralph Weber, quarterback and Captain Dick Taylor at left half. All five will probably get starting assignments.

The boys have been given a slight rest for the past few practices and as a result appear to be in better condition than before a few previous tilts. They have been running plays mostly and have not been going through any tough scrimmages this week.

The probable Prexy starting lineup will find Dick Holliday and Bill England at the ends, Paul Daum and Don Zeigler tackles, Charles Cline and Mario Nofi at the guard positions and Dave Lee in the center of the line. In the backfield Ralph Weber will be found at quarterback, Dick Taylor and Jim Hill at the halves and Jim Coss at fullback.

YANKEES ADVANCE WEISS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, NoNv 16—George Weiss is the new front man in the New York Yankee show window after years of behind-the-scenes manipulation of one of baseball's greatest player empires. Appointment of Weiss to handle all player operations of the parent club and its farm units was part of a general streamlining program announced yesterday by President Larry MacPhail. He disclosed contracts had been signed for lights at the Yankee stadium, assuring night baseball and probably night football in 1946.

Larkin-Moran Bout on WMRN Tonight

Tippy Larkin, the Garfield, N. J. gunner, meets Nick Moran, the Mexican marauder (above), in a welterweight ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden in New York tonight!

Sharp-shooting Larkin, kayoed Freddie Archer and licked Willie Joyce in his last two Garden appearances. Tippy, strictly a boxer, has a dazzling left and a Sunday sock in his right that's a real convincer.

Moran became a hero in Mexico by defeating Bob Montgomery last spring. His only Garden fight — a crowd pleasing shindy—was against Ike Williams in September. He battled ably but lost to the NBA lightweight champ. Moran's style is basic. He fights, throws punches in bunches, keeps boring in.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov 16—How far major league baseball has gone or will go with Commissioner Happy Chandler's plan to spend $50,000 a year for kid baseball remains to be seen, but Ray Dumont who has spent more than a half million dollars in the last five years on sandlot ball has a few pertinent suggestions. Many of Ray's "sandlot" teams would shudder at the sight of sand on their smooth, green diamonds and a lot of that dough served to boost the national semi-pro tournament, but the profits each year have gone right back where they help baseball. Here's what Dumont put out last year: printing and distribution of circulars featuring promotional material, $65,000, free distribution of guides, $25,000, free rule books, $5,000, publicity and advertising, 10,000, payments to teams in national tournament, $30,000.

Dumont's theory is that field men, preferably former diamond stars, are needed to do the job. "The men should be out the entire year. In the fall they should be doing organization work, contacting factories' executives and schools explaining why and how they should have teams. Later they should assist in organizing leagues and in the summer they would conduct district and state-wide schools."

OHIO GROUP STUDIES THREE TEAM CLASSES

OHSAA Plans Vote on Adding Class AA School.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Nov 16—The board of control of the Ohio High School Athletic Association will determine tonight who gets to vote in a referendum on whether the state's high schools should be divided into three competitive sports classifications instead of two.

The referendum proposes creation of class "AA"—comprised of schools with an enrollment of 400 or more boys—with a class "A" gategory of schools with 150 to 400 boys and a class "B" with less than 150.

Under the present system, class "A" comprises schools with 150 or more boys, class "B" less than that. Three-year high schools with more than 115 male students also are in class "A."

Harold W Emswiler, OHSSA commissioner, said the board would decide whether to send ballots to the principals of all size schools or only to those now in class "A."

The OHSAA is an organization of high school principals which governs scholastic sports.

Emswiler said the board also would consider a proposal by the Ohio association of track coaches for a uniform set of rules for qualifying athletes in district meets.

Grid Captains Named at Upper Sandusky

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Nov 16—Dean McAlister and Eugene Rife have been elected co-captains for next season's edition of Upper Sandusky High school's football team. The vote was taken to elect one captain but the result was so near a tie for these two juniors the squad voted to consider them named unanimously as co-captains. Bob Wolfe, senior, was elected honorary captain for the past season during which field captains appointed for each game by Coach Earl Shaffer led the Rams to their string of unbroken victories.

Idol of Cleveland Pro Fans

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—All football fans like to rave about the top players be they college or professional. When ye guys and gals aren't talking about possible All-Americas, you're whispering about the boys who may be the top pros in the country—fellows like Bob Waterfield, the Cleveland Rams' great triple threater, and Steve Bagarus, the Washington Redskins' super-faker ball carrier.

Bob Waterfield, pictured above, passing and carrying the pigskin for the Rams, comes from the University of California at Los Angeles. He played for the Uclans in 1941 and 1942, entered the Army in 1943, but was discharged after an injury at Ft. Benning, Ga. The former UCLA captain gave an inkling of what was to come in his sensational exhibition sparkling the West to a triumph against the East on last New Year's day. His kicks averaged 59 yards and his passes and runs accounted for both of the West's touchdowns.

Army, Navy, OSU, Michigan Among Week-End Favorites

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov 16—Crawling out on the football limb for another batch of predictions.

Army-Penn: Army Coach Red Blaik fears Penn but he is only one at West Point who does. This corner sees the Cadets winning by a comfortable three touchdown margin.

Louisiana State-Georgia Tech—Tech's lack of a first-rate passer will prove costly. Louisiana state.

St. Mary's-UCLA: Each started the season with an outstanding back—Herman Wedemeyer at St Marys and Carl Rossi at UCLA. Wedemeyer still is with the Gaels but the Navy transferred Rossi to Harvard. St Mary's.

Purdue-Michigan: The Wolverines bowed only to previously unbeaten teams and Purdue was spilled by Northwestern. Michigan.

Wisconsin-Navy: The revamped Middie backfield is set for another carnival. Navy.

Nortre Dame-Northwestern The Irish return to teams of their own class and are favored despite the rapid improvement of the Wildcats.

Columbia-Princeton: Princeton's Navy-laden club gets stronger each week but Columbia has been strong all year. Columbia.

Indiana-Pittsburgh: Pitt has collected but two touchdowns since early October. Indiana.

Finishing the rest of the midwest games in a hurry.

Midwest. Minnesota over Iowa, Ohio State over Illinois, Marquette over Kentucky, Penn State over Michigan State, Great Lakes over Fort Warren, Iowa State over Drake, Kansas over Kansas State, Tulsa over Baylor, Oklahoma A & M over Texas Tech.

Here and There in Ohio Sports

By HAROLD HARRISON
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O, Nov. 16—Looked in the other afternoon on Middletown's Middies, the 1944 state basketball champs and runners-up in 1945, and it didn't take long to get the impression they'll probably be quite a problem for other hardwood outfits again this winter. They're big; there is enough experience to give balance and they've come up with some likely looking newcomers.

Back from last year's first string are Paul Lansaw and Don Bolton. Lansaw looks as smooth as silk. Bolton is handicapped by an injured shoulder but he's due to be in top shape shortly.

The Middies will be operating this season with a new coach, George Houck, formerly of Wilmington.

The Three Class Setup

If Ohio schools vote to divide themselves into three classes for competitive athletics instead of the present two, the setup, based on current enrollments would be:

Class AA (schools with 400 or more boys), 87, Class A (schools with from 150 to 400 boys), 120; Class B (schools with less than 150 boys), 946. The biggest class AA district would be the northeastern with 25, plus 15 which are members of the Cleveland Senate.

The smallest would be the southeastern with only three and the eastern with four.

Odds and Ends

The annual meeting of the Ohio College conference will be held here Nov 30. The big item on the program will be the discussion of postwar eligibility problems.

In a game here recently between Columbus St Mary and Columbus Rosary, Jim Mulholland of Rosary attempted a punt from the St Mary 35. The ball went straight up in the air, dropped right on the 35 and then took one of those crazy backward bounces. When Mulholland himself finally fell on it, it was back on his own 34-yard line—a mere loss of 31 yards on a punt.

PURDUE AT MICHIGAN TILT TOPS BIG TEN

Tied for Third Place in Muddled Loop Race.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov 16—Michigan and Purdue, tied for third place in the Western conference football race with 3-1-0 records, will fight to stay in the title scramble tomorrow when they meet at Ann Arbor before some 60,000 fans. At Columbus, O., defending champion Ohio State also hopes to down sixth place Illinois to keep its chance alive.

Michigan, still the conference leader defensively, will be up against the Big Ten's second highest ranking offensive team in the Boilermakers.

Indiana's powerful Hoosiers, conference leaders with a 4-0-1 record, will travel to Pittsburgh for their last non-conference game.

Minnesota, tied for seventh place with Wisconsin, will attempt to break a three-game losing streak in a clash against last place Iowa at Iowa City. In non-conference games Northwestern plays host to Notre Dame and Wisconsin travels to Baltimore to meet Navy.

Purdue's Coach Cecil Isbell said Bill Canfield and Dave Shaw are slated for the regular halfback posts, with Ed Cody at fullback and Bob De Moss at quarterback.

The Wolverines went through a final light scrimmage session with Wally Teninga, freshman halfback who came out of the Navy game with a shoulder injury, working out of his regular position.

State and Illinois Rated Even in Ohio's Top Battle

Harrison Gives Bucks Edge, Favors Ohio U., Ashland, Wittenberg, Otterbein and Wilberforce.

Ashland over Kenyon
Ohio U over West Virginia.
Otterbein over Albion
Wittenberg over Heidelberg

COLUMBUS, O, Nov 16—Unless the weather interferes, the biggest crowd of the season—perhaps more than 75,000—is expected to jam into Ohio stadium tomorrow to watch Ohio's once-beaten Bucks close out their home season against an Illinois outfit that has been gaining strength day by day.

That game will be one of six involving Ohio colleges tomorrow and when the day is done the only grid contests remaining will be Miami-Cincinnati on Thanksgiving day and Ohio State-Michigan and Wilberforce-West Virginia State on Nov 24.

Hard-pressed by homecoming alumni, Ohio State officials have added extra seats for the Illinois game and will permit an attendance of a few hundred more than 75,000.

Illinois is expected to be stronger than at any time since early in the season. A flock of injured linemen have returned to action and the latest word is halfback Eddie Bray also will be ready to run against the Bucks.

Ohio State was regarded as no more than an even choice against the Illini.

Ohio university, Wilberforce and Otterbein will perform on foreign fields. Ohio U., seeking its third victory in seven games, goes against the University of West Virginia at Morgantown.

Otterbein closes its season against Albion at Albion, Mich., and another victory would about wipe out the sting of early season trouble encountered by the Cardinals.

Wilberforce plays Philander Smith of Little Rock, Ark.

Two games wind up the Ohio conference season.

In one, Ashland seeks to grab off fifth place in the league against Kenyon which hasn't won a game all season. The other matches Wittenberg against Heidelberg.

But those were not the most unusual features of the game.

MARKET RISES TO NEW HIGHS

Best Level in Almost 9 Years Reached; Selects Up 3 Points.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—The push to new high ground for almost nine years was resumed by today's stock market with selected rails, steels, motors, gold mines and utilities adding fractions to more than three points.

From the start dealings were active notwithstanding intermittent slowdowns. Top marks were trimmed here and there near the fourth hour although numerous issues held at or around best levels.

Prominent on the swing were Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Dome Mines, South American Gold & Platinum, Commonwealth & Southern, United Corp., American Water Works, American Telephone, Schenley, Western Union "A" and Standard Gas preferreds.

BUYERS SCARCE AS GRAIN PRICES DROP

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—There was not much buying interest in grain futures today and most prices slipped.

There were occasional rallies from the low points and some buying in the busy pits pushed prices above the previous close at times.

Trade authorities' belief that parity legislation enactment is a long way off has dried up public enthusiasm in the market. There was no news otherwise to affect prices either way.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I SAW that I must talk fast and 'embroider' my facts skillfully if I were to banish the suspicion in Olga's eyes, a suspicion which I knew only too well was justified by George's actions

He had proffered his love to Mary, as Olga just had said, and then at her rebuff had gone straight to Olina and asked her hand in marriage

But the more I thought about Georges and his action, the more I believe that his parting scene with Mary had been played with vanity as a motif rather than real love, and that his farewell to Olina, had as much sincerity and affection as was possible to his volatile nature

I must "pick and choose" the things I wished to tell Olga, and I began with a swift denial of her question

"I mean nothing of the sort" I said "Georges came down to bid Mary good-bye, but because of a faulty door fastening, Dicky and I were involuntary eavesdroppers to everything that was said so I know the truth of what I am telling you

Then I bade good-bye to truth in sheer desperation and began to weave fact and fiction together for Olga's benefit

Georges did not proffer his love to Mary" I said "He did not ask her for any promise But he did refer to that old time when he and she were betrothed the same time Olina was pledged to Noel"

"Yes yes I know when they were all mere children," Olga interpolated "But go on"

Sentimental Stops

"Then he pulled out the sentimental stops about going away perhaps forever and that he hoped she had no hard feelings toward him because of Noel's anger against him"

I realized I was making that up out of whole cloth but I could not help it now and I hurried on

"Then you know Georges how theatrical he is" I said, and Olga's mouth quirked into a little smile

"I suppose he asked for a farewell kiss," she said, and my spirits gave a sudden leap upward I had succeeded in giving the thing the right touch, and I spoke my next words with confidence

"Yes he did" I said, and gave a purposely amused little laugh

"I trust Mary refused him" she said but there was no doubt of her stepson's wife in her voice

Resounding Slap

"She not only refused the kiss," I said "but when Georges, piqued by her refusal, and spurred by his vanity, attempted to kiss her forcibly, she gave him so resounding a slap that his face was red for quite a long time afterward That was the reason he wished to go directly to his room and see no one when he returned to your apartment"

Olga laughs very rarely, but she gave vent to a hearty one as I finished my sentence

"Oh, poor vain Georges!" she said chokingly, but there was no sympathy in her voice. "Nothing like that ever happened to him before, I am sure What happened afterward?"

"Nothing much," I prevaricated "Mary told him a few home truths, and then calmed him down with an assurance that she wasn't angry at him, and that she would always pray for his safety He kissed her hand and said good-bye very tranquilly"

Revealed No Hint

"But he must have been seething inside," Olga said, while I congratulated myself upon revealing no hint of the parting advice Mary had given Georges, 'to make a big play for Olina'"

"You have lifted a great burden from my heart, my dear Madge," Olga said next. "I was afraid he might have begged Mary to leave Noel, or something equally melodramatic That attempt to kiss her good-bye really meant nothing But I am glad Mary slapped him It not only was coming to him, as you Americans say, but to an inordinately proud man like Georges it means that never again can he think of Mary romantically He always will remember the slap I can rest easy now about Olina Mary was the only danger in her path"

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Intestinal Ills

TOO frequent emptying of the bowels is known as diarrhea This may be a chronic condition, that is, long-continued or it may be acute, that is lasting only a short time The latter cases, as a general rule are due to infection with either the Shigella or the Salmonella group of germs

It is possible, by means of proper laboratory tests to tell these conditions, one from the other This is done by making what is known as a stool culture to tell which kind of germ is present It is important that this be done in order to determine what treatment should be employed because the sulfonamide drugs are effective in the diarrhea due to the Shigella but insofar as is known at present, they are not helping in treating, the Salmonella infections

Doctor James Watt of New Orleans suggests that if it is found that the patient has a Shigella infection it may be well to have the patient in a hospital He also suggests that after taking a stool culture on admission to the hospital sulfadiazine be given in the proper dose Stool cultures are taken on the second or third day and daily thereafter until the germs are no longer found to be present The drug may then be discontinued, even though the symptoms have not cleared up completely In most instances from five to eight days of treatment are required

If it is not possible to make cultures of the stools Doctor Watt suggests that sulfonamide drugs be administered in all severe cases of acute diarrhea, and continue for two days after the symptoms have cleared up or for a maximum period of eight days According to Doctor Watt any infection which has not cleared up within an eight day period using sulfonamides will not be benefited by the sulfonamide preparations

Insofar as the Salmonella infections are concerned the only treatment available consists of complete rest in bed the administration of an abundance of fluids and keeping up of the patient's strength with proper diet Because of the severe diarrhea, it may be necessary to give fluids by an injection under the skin or into a vein However, both the Shigella and Salmonella infections are self limited, that is they clear up within a period of eight to ten days in most instances

Bear in mind that acute diarrhea can be best treated when its cause is determined

Gen. Wainwright Goes To Join MacArthur for Jap Surrender

In the penultimate article—the 41st of [illegible] series, Gen. Wainwright relates the means by which he came back to the arms of free Americans

• • •

By GENERAL JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

(Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

• • •

MAJ. LAMAR, the OSS doctor who had parachuted on Mukden to evacuate me, woke me at 7 30 on the wonderful morning of Aug. 27, 1945, to tell me that breakfast was ready—the first such kind arousing I had had in years.

He had attended to everything. Two of his enlisted men had cooked us an incomparable feast of processed ham, powdered eggs, fruits, toasted crackers and coffee.

Someone, someday, should write a truly fitting tribute to the American breakfast.

We had just finished our meal when Gen. Parker came to our Mukden hotel from the nearby prison camp. He had received my list of chosen officers and men, who were flying out with me later that morning, and had his men ready

But he wanted to make one change. He told me he preferred to stay behind until all the others had been evacuated, and he recommended that Brig Gen. William E. Brougher be evacuated in his stead. It was a courageous decision to make, for Gen Parker had suffered as much as any of the senior officers and was eager to get away.

We drove to the airport at 9 a. m. and there I was reunited with friends I had not seen for many months Gen. Beebe, my aides Johnny Pugh and Tom Dooley, my old assistant chief of staff for supply, Col. Galbraith, and others.

We took off just before 10 a. m on Aug. 27, and in the air I learned from Gen Beebe how the word of liberation came to the men at Mukden.

They knew much more about the progress of the war than we at Sian did Near the end they were still getting their papers, and the Jap press apparently was quite frank about the seriousness of B-29 bombings and the advance of the Russians through Manchuria.

The officers at Mukden feared [illegible] that they were about to be [illegible] to Korea, for the Japs seemed to be determined to hold on to our ranks as long as possible. They were packed and ready to depart on what would have been a most heartbreaking trip when to their [illegible] they saw an American plane fly over Mukden on the afternoon of Aug. 16 and spill out a [illegible] of parachutes.

That evening several American officers and men came into Mukden camp. They walked directly to the camp commander's headquarters and one by one the emaciated American officers and men crept through the darkness of the compound to peer through the commandant's window and behold the phenomenon of a well-fed American officer in obvious command of the situation.

Exhilarating Drink

They knew the end of their shocking ordeal was in sight, so they broke open what was left of their Red Cross coffee and drank it until some of the men actually became intoxicated from such an unaccustomed stimulant The next morning, after a sleepless night, they were introduced to an American major named Hennessy.

Gen. Parker at once took command of the camp, received the keys to the storehouse and assumed control of the camp's administration He and Gen. Beebe had for some time been working on a plan for just such an eventuality A complete scheme of organization had been worked out on paper. They had selected an American guard, and a mess officer whose first instruction was to double the ration.

That night four Russian captains walked through the gate They called for the Jap camp commander.

Japs Get Orders

"Line up every Japanese in this camp, fully armed, and then have them drop all rifles, pistols and swords to the ground in front of the ranks," the Jap was instructed. "We will give you five minutes."

The Japs scampered like wild things to obey the order. Then the Russian spokesmen asked Gen Parker to select 20 deserving members of the newly formed American guard. These men formed a line in front of the assembled Japs. The Russian captain in charge of the ceremony then picked up 20 rifles and presented one to each member of the American guard.

Our guard ended matters by marching the Japs off the confinement, while some of our men cheered.

Connection with Chungking

Maj Hennessey and his men had jumped on Mukden with a compact but powerful radio Communication with Chungking was quickly established and among the first messages received was an order from Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters to evacuate me from Sian as speedily as possible.

We exchanged a thousand other stories in our C-47 plane that wonderful day of Aug. 27 as we flew across northern China enroute to the kind of lives we had known so many years before. At 4 30 that afternoon we put down at the American air base at Sian, China, a place with the same name as that of our late Manchurian prison camp, but—well—as different as night and day.

Cherry Pie and Ice Cream

Sian, China, is a remarkable old city that was the capital of China 2,000 years ago It has towering walls, wide streets and taller and stronger natives than you find in southern China. The buildings at our field were well kept, well made and beautifully arranged The mess was hard for any of us to believe, for there was all the food we could eat and, to top it off, the apparition of cherry pie a la mode. My chief of staff, Gen. Beebe, happens to be an ice cream addict and I guess during the long cruel years of his captivity and starvation he built up the most powerful ice cream appetite on record Anyway, he ate enough that night to founder himself

The next morning, Aug 28 I appeared at reveille for the raising of The Flag on a new pole being put into operation that day It was a blood-tingling sight for all of us, for it was the first American flag we had seen since the last one came down on Corregidor. The Flag is a stirring emblem at any time, but you can imagine our own emotions as we stood there and saw it for the first time in 39 months.

"I WAS REUNITED WITH FRIENDS." Gen Wainwright arriving at Chungking by plane from Mukden . . to taste not only freedom, but his first American breakfast in years. Today he also writes about seeing his aides, from whom he had been separated, and about flying to Yokohama

View New Equipment

After a breakfast of real eggs the camp commander took me on a short inspection tour which opened my eyes to the enormous strides our country had made during my long years of imprisonment. The simplest things were foreign to me new small arms, the shape of the helmets, new uniforms, new planes, cars, new and at first incomprehensible terms such as GI, to describe an American soldier.

We were in Chungking by 1 30 that afternoon Lieut Gen Wedemeyer greeted us most cordially at the short, colorful Chungking airstrip and took Gen. Moore Jones, Beebe and me to fine quarters in his home where he saw to it that we had luxurious baths and replaced some of our scare-crowish clothing with his own fine uniforms Another marvel he had was a radioed photo of my wife on which was a note in Adele's handwriting.

That afternoon I accompanied Gen Wedemeyer to his headquarters, held a brief press conference, sent off a radio to my wife and then one to the adjutant general reporting officially my return and that of the other American officers with me. Late in the day I received from Wedemeyer—in a deeply moving ceremony the Distinguished Service Cross which had been awarded to me by Gen MacArthur on Jan 30, 1942 for services performed in the North Luzon campaign.

First Broadcast to U. S.

In the evening after a dinner that was hard to believe, even though it was spread there before me, I went back to Wedemeyer's office and made my first broadcast to the United States I said substantially what I had told the reporters earlier in the day

"Well, here I am, looking pretty old but I assure you feeling 20 years younger than I did 10 days ago.

"I imagine most of you know that because of circumstances over which I had no control, and in order to avoid what would have been a far greater disaster, I was forced on May 6, 1942, to tender to Lieutenant General Homma the surrender of my forces in the Philippines.

"My gallant troops had perhaps made a defense against more overwhelming odds and under more disadvantageous circumstances than troops of the American Army had been confronted with in the history of that Army

"I had little direct contact with my country or official agencies thereof for over three years. But such contact here and there as I had caused me to believe that the administration and the war department and the American people had accepted my dire disaster with the forebearance and generosity which are perhaps unique in the experience of any defeated commander"

Visits Chiang Kai-shek

That night was another still-hard-to-believe-encounter with clean sheets and bedsprings. In the morning I attended to a pile of paper work and then called on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at his residence 10 miles down the Yangtze.

After another perfect day in Chungking, part of which I spent with my old and dear friend, Maj Gen. Pat Hurley, I took off on Aug 30 in Lieut Gen Stratemeyer's specially rebuilt B-17 for Manila — accompanied by Beebe Pugh, Dooley, and Sgt Carroll, the survivors of the party which accompanied me to the surrender of Homma Gen. Percival also accompanied me. Our schedule called for us to stop off at Manila to be outfitted for the Missouri ceremony

End of Perfect Flight

It was a long but perfect flight, unmarred even by the sight of some Jap fighter planes in the air as we passed over Hong Kong We arrived at Nichols Field on the outskirts of Manila at 5 30 p m and the first person who stepped up and shook hands with me was my good friend President Osmena In his party was Miss Gladys Ketchum, sister of the gallant Maj Sandy Ketchum, of my old Twenty-Sixth Cavalry, who was killed in the fighting at Binalonen on Christmas Eve of 1941.

Manila was shockingly destroyed. The very contour of the city seemed changed. We entered Dewey boulevard by a route which was totally unfamiliar to me, and as we proceeded down that avenue I saw that the spacious mansions which once lined it had been burned or broken to the ground. In their places stood barracks and supply dumps. We stopped at what was left of the Admiral apartments and went to our quarters.

Uniform Made To Fit

That night Col Sid Hoff, detailed by MacArthur to look out for us, brought in a tailor who altered the uniform Gen. Wedemeyer had given me in Chungking and made it came closer to fitting my towering skin and bones. Col Hoff then produced a barber, ordered dinner served in our rooms, and dumped a small mountain of jackets, shirts, insignia, theater ribbons, toilet articles and other needed supplies in our room. Best of all things, he gave me a neat, .32 pistol.

I cannot tell you what it meant to me to have a gun again

We were up and off at 6 a. m. the next morning, this time in a plane whose designation—C-54—was strange to us, and whose size, speed and luxury were hard to believe Shortly before noon we landed on Okinawa where my old friend Gen John R. Hodge, whom I had not seen in many years, took us in hand and told us the amazing story of the capture of that strategic outpost

By late afternoon of this same Aug. 31 we were flying over Tokyo bay. We put down at Atsugi airfield about 10 miles out of Yokohama and were taken to the Grand Hotel in the city in [illegible]s the old and battered Jap Army cars

Japs Role Reversed

It was a strange feeling to ride through the streets of the city and watch even Jap general officers come to attention and briskly salute us after years of humiliating servility before Jap privates. Riding to the hotel, I thought of the beatings we had taken for failing to bow and scrape before illiterate latrine sentries, and great waves of thankfulness passed over me.

MacArthur's staff officers were waiting for me on the hotel steps which lead to the lobby They greeted me and told me that the general was having dinner and had left word for me to join him in the dining room

There are signs at the city limits of Marion, "Safest City 25,000 to 50,000 Population." No signs could possibly be erected, "Best educated city. That, to my mind, is even more important than traffic safety

Yes, do as the advertisement says, people of Marion—visit the grade schools, the junior high schools, the high schools Look over Central Junior High — the Mausoleum of Marion Education. See Harding High school with its many hundred too many students Don't stomp your feet or slam the door as you enter Central—the building might fall apart.

The people who graduate from Marion schools and then go to college seldom return if they are of high calibre Why? Because the city has nothing to offer their talents When they do return it is because their connections can get them good jobs or because they wish to be with their families

I hope the votes have been re-counted, and that the result turned out differently The small amount extra which the taxpayers must pay will be well invested Education is one of the few lasting things in the world We can lose nearly everything else—home, family, ideals, jobs and mundane things, but no one can take from us our education unless they take our minds at the same time

Your Family Doctor May Be Home from Wars by New Year's

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15—Your family doctor, the one who packed up and went to war some time ago, may be setting up his shingle between now and the first of the year

Maj Gen George F. Lull, Washington, deputy surgeon general of the Army, said present plans call for the return to civilian status of 13,000 Army doctors—more than one-third the 34,000 in service.

In a statement issued in his name last night at the 39th annual meeting of the Southern Medical association, Lull said the Army already has released more than 12,000 medical officers. In addition, the Army has demobilized 18,000 nurses and 2,178 dental officers. Nurses and dentists are being released at the rate of 1,000 a week, he said

Both the Army and Navy announced plans for reorganization of their medical departments to induce medical officers to make their careers in the armed forces

Pay raises up to 55 per cent, quicker promotions and opportunities to specialize are features in an Army proposal now awaiting approval of the war department

RENT EVICTION RULES LISTED

Area Director Reports Housing Shortage Results in Serious Situation.

With evictions in the Marion rental area rising and the number of rental houses and apartments available decreasing rapidly, a close check of all recent and future evictions will be made, Edward P. Wagner, area rent director, reported today.

"Eviction cases in this area alone during the last six months totaled 152 compared with 102 in the same period of 1944, Mr. Wagner said.

"Landlords should be certain that they have grounds to evict a tenant, under the regulation before attempting to dispossess a tenant, Mr. Wagner said.

New Regulations

He pointed out that eviction regulations were recently tightened as follows

New buyer seeks eviction of tenant for self occupancy must get certificate of eviction from the area rent office. The waiting period is now six months instead of three as formerly. The waiting period may be waived if buyer served in the Armed Forces and needs to occupy accommodations.

Owner seeks eviction to remodel, or demolish property must petition area rent office for eviction certificate. Rent director will determine if eviction is necessary and if request is made in good faith. Authorization for eviction can be refused or an appropriate waiting period imposed before certificate is issued.

Landlord seeking to evict tenant to occupy property he owned before Sept. 1, 1942 must now show a compelling necessity to occupy the housing unit himself. For example, a war worker who rented his home while he was working in another city and is returning and wants to reoccupy the house would be considered to have a compelling necessity. War veterans are exempted from this provision if they wish to occupy their homes themselves; they need only to notify the tenant and the area rent office and prove that they owned the housing unit before Sept. 1, 1942.

A double celebration of golden wedding anniversaries, for two couples who are members of St. Paul's Rural Lutheran church, was held by members of the congregation, families and friends of the celebrants, Sunday night at the St. Paul Parish house. The couples honored were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mautz of the Furstenberger road and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fetter of the Columbus-Sandusky pike. Mrs. Carl Klingel was in charge of a program which included a talk by the pastor of St. Paul's church, Rev. N. C. Schellhase, "Your Wedding Anniversary — Fifty Years of Golden Memories."

For the opening of the program, guests sang "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet" and a quartet composed of Charles David Mayers, Mary Ellen Mayers and Rev. and Mrs. Schellhase sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold." A poem was read by Mrs. Leroy Fetter and vocal duet numbers were presented by Richard Fetter and Bonnie Stoner, "Soldier, Soldier, Won't You Marry Me?" and "No, John, No," while solos were sung by Delores and Billy Hough and Marilyn Mack. "Long, Long Ago" was sung by Charles and Mary Ellen Mayers.

Mr. Mautz and Mr. Fetter, the bridegrooms of 50 years ago, recalled the time of their courtship, wedding, and early days of establishing homes. Rev. Schellhase then spoke, a golden wedding wreath was presented each couple, and the program was closed with the group singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

ARMY RELAXES ON DISCHARGES

Reduces Point Scores. Considers Minor Children and Length of Service.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 16—The War department announced today that all Army enlisted men with three or more children under age 18 will be discharged upon request.

This was one of several changes in discharge regulations which include

Slight reduction in point scores for discharge of enlisted men and officers and enlisted Wacs effective Dec 1. The changes: Provide for length of service, regardless of age, as a discharge factor; and release of all married Wacs, both officers and enlisted women who enlisted prior to May 12, 1945.

Beginning Dec 1, here are the qualifications for discharge

Male enlisted personnel—55 points as computed on Sept. 2 (instead of the present 60) or four years of honorable military service, or three or more children under 18 years. In addition, previously established factors will remain in effect which make a soldier eligible for discharge if he is 35, 36 or 37 years old and has completed two years of service, or is 38 years old regardless of length of service

Enlisted Wacs—32 points (instead of 34); or those who are married and who enlisted prior to May 12. Previously established rules make a Wac eligible if she is 35, 36 or 37 years old and has two years of service, or is 38 years old regardless of service

Male officers (excluding medical department officers)—73 points (instead of 75), or four years and three months of military service Officers will continue to be eligible for discharge if they are age 50 or over.

The present score of 37 points for Wac officers was left unchanged, the only new provision being the marriage clause. Wac officers will continue to be eligible for release if they are 40 years old

The Army said it will continue discharging surplus personnel in this country who are not qualified for overseas duty even though they do not have enough points for release.

The Army said "further announcement concerning medical department discharge factors will be made before the middle of December."

Chiang Armies To Move Into Manchuria Soon

PEIPING, Nov 16—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops will begin a mass movement "quite soon" into Manchuria in air transports turned oved to China by America, a spokesman at Chiang's field headquarters said today.

Their destination will be the main airfield at Changchun, capital of Manchuria, which unconfirmed reports say is in the hands of Chinese Communists.

(An official Chinese government dispatch yesterday said Russians had yielded control of Changchun's postal and telegraph facilities to a handful of Chinese government authorities, and indicated the Russians have not yet completed their planned withdrawal)

American air crew ferrying unmarked C45 transports here from Kunming protested to commanding officers of the 10th Airforce, that flying without the U. S insignia increased the hazards of being shot

The generalissimo's spokesman said conflict with Chinese Communist forces throughout North China is becoming "more and more serious"

DR. AKERS SPEAKS TO YOUNG PEOPLE HERE

Youth Groups Attend Services At Epworth Church.

Last night in Epworth Methodist church Dr Lewis R Akers of Steubenville, addressing youth groups in particular, spoke on "The Great Refusal," taking as his text "He went away sorrowful," from the story of the rich young ruler Members of Intermediate, High school and Young Peoples Fellowships represented the church youth groups at the service Miss Mary Matson sang "Hear My Prayer"

Dr. Akers stated, "One of the fascinating character of the New Testament was the rich young ruler recorded in three of the four gospels Jesus seemed to love him at first sight and widened His inner circle of disciples to receive the young man as His follower

"The young man, hearing the words of the great teacher ran eagerly to meet Him and knelt before Him asking the question that should be foremost in every true man's heart, 'What shall I do to inherit eternal life?' and again 'What shall I do to be perfect?' When Christ answered 'One thing thou lackest, go sell all and come follow Me' The startled young man hesitated meditated, and then, he turned away sorrowfully' thus making the great refusal

"Had the young man made instead the great acceptance his name would have come down to us haloed with glory like that of St John, but his gold became a bar across his door of golden opportunity and his name is buried in oblivion and shame"

Dr. Akers will speak tonight on "The Vision Supreme"

Chester Bowles' Opinion Poll

IF Governor Lausche's reply to Price Administrator Bowles' request for ideas from state governors on how to stop inflation is typical, the governors are going to give the federal government something to think about.

Governor Lausche says in effect that Ohio has no budget for price inflation and therefore will have to go on a buying strike until prices come down. This amounts to saying he knows of no way to stop inflation, except the hard way—a buyer's strike. As far as the general public is concerned, of course, this is improbable and drastic, but if inflation goes far enough it also is inevitable and tragic. It calls attention to the one thing in the economic equation that no one in Washington, except Mr. Bowles, seems to be thinking about seriously—the capacity of consumers to prolong war boom wage costs into the reconversion period. As the price of goods is transferred from government books to consumers' pocketbooks, it must be met out of the people's savings and income, not out of federal credit.

Price Administrator Bowles has done some solid thinking on the subject. In a recent statement on pricing during reconversion, he said:

"During the war when materials and manpower were scarce, our problem was to prevent inflationary price rises that would interfere with war production and place back-breaking costs and debt burdens on people and the government. Now with most material restrictions being lifted and more manpower becoming available, our job is to prevent an inflation that would dry up markets and interfere with the full production and full distribution of the products industry is ready to produce. Our policies must be flexible enough to allow for the complete utilization of the great productive capacity of the United States as it becomes available for civilian goods output. At the same time they must be tight enough to prevent the kind of inflation that destroyed so many markets and businesses after World War I."

THE first necessity of the United States is to resume full production. Every delay and handicap brings inflation that much nearer. Whether the handicap is imposed by fumbling on the part of OPA, arbitrariness by labor leaders, or arbitrariness by management, the result is the same. It lengthens the odds against economic stabilization. Bernard Baruch stated the case excellently in a recently published letter to Representative Gore of Tennessee: "The miracle of American production can save the situation now, as it did in war, but it must hurry, hurry, hurry."

Every dollar of war savings spent by men made idle by strikes and every dollar's worth of buying power wasted on high prices is taken away from the nation's stabilization reserve.

Work stoppages in key industries, slowdowns in many places, arbitrary demands for adjustments that interfere with production, an atmosphere of uncertainty about the future of production and the whimsical imposition of theories about production by politicians and crackpots—these are not the means of attaining full production.

In the attempt to deal with reconversion piecemeal, everyone has staked out a special claim at the expense of collective action on the common necessity, which is to produce commodities as rapidly as possible for the consumers waiting to buy them. The goose that lays the golden eggs is being pulled and hauled at from all directions; its eyes are glassy and its pulse is slowing down.

THERE is a logical way to deal with the emergency that has been precipitated by failure to get together in the common interest of full production and minimum inflation. It is simply to get together. That is the purpose of the labor-management conference in Washington. It is the hope of every rational employer and employe. It is the potential salvation of the country. Undoubtedly, it is what Mr. Bowles is trying to do with his canvass of state governors.

The component parts of the American organization for production, the most efficient thing of its kind ever created, must knuckle down to work. There must be no needless waste of labor, management, or the resources of consumers. The United States has just ended the terrific waste of war; the job now is to get back to work to create new wealth to make up the deficit.

The illogical way is to stagger into postwar inflation and, when the bubble bursts, depression. That is what Price Administrator Bowles is trying to avert. It is what all federal officials say they want to avert if they can, but some of them are using marvelously curious methods. They are encouraging inflation with one hand, while professing to hold it off with the other hand. They are protecting political expediency and hoping to get an economic miracle.

OPA Administrator Bowles may get 48 different parts of the same answer from the 48 state governors, but if all the 48 are as honest as Governor Lausche of Ohio they will tell him that the United States can't have an indefinite continuation of the war boom without having the consequences of the boom's ultimate collapse, when buyers are forced out of markets for lack of money

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

CIO Bills Delay Congress' Recess.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—Senate Floor Leader Barkley came out of the White House and announced the recess for which congress has been panting, will be delayed until the very eve of Christmas if necessary to get through the two CIO bills increasing unemployment compensation and the full employment measure pledging the government an eternal but undefined spending policy.

This is merely the latest development in Mr. Truman's battle with congress and an expression of his uncharacteristic firmness and insistence in a rather Roosevelt style upon the top two points of his program which are so unpopular in congress that they have been allowed to lie dormant without arousing a public clamor.

At the same time Mr. Barkley announced the President would allow the youth draft act, officially known as "compulsory military training," and the Army-Navy unification bill to modernize the armed services into one force, to be permitted to go over until after the Christmas holidays.

Youth Draft Unpopular

The youth draft plan of the war department is observedly unpopular—by observedly I mean a considerable genuine public sentiment has been expressed against it in letters to congressmen from unorganized individuals in their home districts as well as the most formidable array of organized groups yet presented this session against a measure—educational, religious and even labor, including CIO.

The Army-Navy unification bill does not seem to be either popular or unpopular as far as I have been able to penetrate the normal sources of public opinion. My guess is the people do not understand it as it involves largely technical training problems, although most of the young people in both services with whom I have come in contact seem to be militantly in favor of it.

Strange things began to happen to this proposed modernization program several weeks ago. You may recall when the George (lieutenant general, head of air transport command) report first appeared in this spot setting forth the modernization program which had been bottled by the shiniest and biggest brass hats of the combined chiefs of staff of both services, I reported that Admirals Halsey and Nimitz, the fighting admirals, were in favor of it.

No Mistake Made

Since then both have indicated their intention to leave the Navy and likewise have made known their opposition. You might guess offhand that I made a mistake. I did not.

Both Nimitz and Halsey were for the measure, and so informed the George committee when it was traveling around the world accumulating evidence from the fighting men in the field. What happened to change their minds I do not know, but that they did, I do know.

Equally and similarly strange has been the lack of developments in investigating the responsibility for Pearl Harbor. The committee of inquiry planned at first to take a jaunt by air out to see Pearl Harbor, although a half hour's trip to the Navy department would have permitted them to inspect base relief as well as topographical surveys of the whole islands. What they could find otherwise at Pearl Harbor now that the sunken ships have been raised, I cannot learn.

The committee investigation itself got involved in what reporters call a political fight with the Democrats obviously trying to hold back matters in one way or another, then loosening up a little here and there, and the Republicans outraged but confused and unable to penetrate the administration tactics successfully. The sum total of it has been nothing—an absolute nothing.

Connections Sought

This vacuumized condition can be rather plainly seen but my authoritative informants hereabouts have wondered if there were any connection between these events.

In congress you hear aside whispers that what is facetiously called "top brass," meaning the invisible military authorities of both services, have to a considerable extent, captured the Truman administration for precisely what they want—namely no unification, youth draft act, and no Pearl Harbor expose. If so, what Mr. Truman will get out of it may be difficult to find.

My information would not encourage him to believe that congress is so eager for a Christmas recess that it will ease under the pressure applied.

Push-Button Peace from War?

Homes May Benefit from Military Science Gadgets.

LIGHTWEIGHT. This 16-horsepower, 400-cycle motor was developed at Wright Field for use in Liberator bombers.

(Third In A Series)

By PAUL B. MASON
Associated Press Writer

DAYTON, O.—Your home and mine may someday benefit from gadgets currently under development at Wright Field, the AAF's huge testing laboratory and procurement center here.

Two of the Air Technical Service Command's leading authorities on electricity, Lt. Col. Wilbur T. Harding and Lt. Col. G. C. Crom, put it this way:

"Plans for a push-button war can be applied, in part at least, to a 'push-button peace'—widening not only electricity's usefulness, but easing Man's way of Life."

Harding and Crom are respectively, chief and assistant chief of the electrical branch of the ATSC's equipment laboratory.

Complaining that "our industrial designers are too conventional," Crom recalled that two and a half years ago "we couldn't get one of them interested in building us 400-cycle lightweight motors for aircraft. They said it couldn't be done; that even if it could, what market would there be for them?"

So Crom and his assistants set about the task—and produced one which, small enough to hold in the palm of your hand, could operate your garage doors.

Improvement of direct current equipment for airplane use has enabled the AAF to pack upwards of 1,200 per cent more power into each generator installed since 1941, Col. Harding said.

And there may be civilian use, some day, for such an item as a complete recreational kit, including dumbells, boxing gloves, a badminton set and a bar which was flown to Alaska a year or so ago, to help "ground-wacky" pilots overcome inactivity due to inclement weather.

Or an Army-developed electric refrigerating unit, which can make 40 pounds of ice cubes daily and store food for 100 men for four days, may have an edge upon civilian competition, because it can be shipped "knocked down"—in pieces.

Cookies for Hospital

Nothing to do but read, sleep, or rest! Just waiting to get well! It is a tiresome business for patients any time, but especially so for boys in convalescent Army and Navy hospitals. They'd so much rather be home!

That's the way it was when the Army Air Forces opened a Convalescent hospital at Ft. Thomas, Ky., according to Farm Journal. But the Homemaking clubs of Boone county got busy. They figured that if the boys could take a general diet, something for the sweet tooth would help.

One club member decorated a big jar, and since February the clubs have sent about 1,000 dozen cookies to keep it filled. They are plain drop cookies, oatmeal and chocolate chip cookies, all made with sorghum, honey, cane, corn, or maple syrup. Drop cookies are made, too, from gingerbread and devils food cake mixes.

In addition, they have sent four large layer cakes, and an enormous three-tiered cake, fashioned after a wedding cake.

The clubs, under the direction of Mary Hood Gillespie, Home Demonstration Agent at Burlington, worked out a schedule three months in advance, in order to keep the cookies going regularly.

Perfection—The First Time

By William Feather in Imperial Magazine.

THE perfection of the earliest printing has always been a source of wonder to historians of the graphic arts. It simply does not accord with human experience that work as fine as the Gutenberg Bibles should be produced without a background of step-by-step developement on the part of someone.

True, the artistic pattern was set by hand letterers and illuminators who had been creating beautiful pages competitively for generations. Still the problems of composition and press work were formidable for the most gifted initiator.

Added to that was the need of using an alloy suitable to the task, in a field where only one possible alloy would fill the bill. If Gutenberg deserves the fame usually accorded to him, he was a singular combination of artist, mechanic and metallurgist.

Research in type metal laboratories has been conducted with the object of discovering any other possible alloy than lead, tin and antimony which would fill the mold, melt readily, harden quickly—in short make a satisfactory inexpensive type metal. Metallurgists learned some things about alloying but developed no new formula. The resulting conclusion was that type metal has always been made about the only way it could be made.

To appraise the inventive genius of Gutenberg and his associates, as well as reputed rivals, it is necessary to consider two phases of the background of typographical printing.

One was the industry of hand lettering, which has been mentioned. The Rhine valley was the locale of many monasteries in which busy monks spent lifetimes in producing relatively few volumes per man, but doing their work with surpassing excellence.

The letter design, typography, paper, parchment, binding, decorating, that became a part of the new art, were borrowed from an established industry.

THE other source was the art of block printing, which had flourished for many wears before the earliest known typography. Skill in carving pictures and brief text on wood was prevalent and led uninformed school historians to write, in many cases, that Gutenberg carved his type from wood.

Typography coming in the middle of the 15th century, therefore, was provided in advance with a suitable press and with tested inks.

Was it also provided with a metal? No one can answer with certainty. Some of the researches in stereotyping history made by George A. Kubler indicate that use of a paper mache matrix in casting a metal plate was known at an early date, forgotten and rediscovered in the 19th century. There is no knowledge of the date of its discovery. Its first mention that we know of is that of a standard and accepted process.

If it antedated typography, the paper matrix was undoubtedly used for the duplication of wood cuts in metal. The development of a suitable metal may have occupied decades, or it may have come rather easily. Lead as the chief ingredient would have suggested itself to almost any experimenter. Among the limited number of metals known in that day, tin would have been one of the logical choices for a hardener.

How about antimony? Nature took care of that. Most antimony occurred in connection with tin. In fact, medieval chemists scarcely distinguished between them. A fortunate smelting of tin, with approximately the right amount of antimony, would have started the experimenter toward success.

In whittling down the "miracle" of the Gutenberg Bibles, it is impossible to dim the fame of the men who printed them.

Even if the work had been done in the technique of a recognized craft, the results would have been a triumph of craftsmanship with few parallels.

Sees Free India

By The Associated Press

MADURA—Swami Yogiraj Sri Nityananda Kavishwar is out with a prediction that India will have freedom in February, 1946, or something very near like freedom.

Also, he says, the atomic bomb will end wars for 12 years.

A copy of his forecasts was sent to the Associated Press of America at the request of the Swami. He had already established himself as a man with capacity to see far into the future, his friends say, and point to published stories claiming that he foretold, among other things, the death of President Roosevelt and the end of the war in June, 1945.

Of the situation in India, he said: "By Oct. 10, 1945, the atmosphere will be vibrant with hope to meet on a platform of a new common understanding. By February, 1946, dawns the time when India's future value in the Global concept will be very high."

His statement concluded with a comment on religion and the atomic bomb:

"Isolation is gone," he said. "Human unity is born and universal Brotherhood is on the dawn. All religions have become unutterably dull. Within 11 years from now there will be a grand mixing of all castes and creeds in India though unpalatable to the orthodox types. The air is vibrant with the atomic bomb. This will stop the war for 12 years and will supply a soothing balm for the good of mankind."

They Deserve Applause

By Truman Twill

Today, we have a complaint to register. It is a complaint about the way Canton treats people who march in parades.

Last Monday night we watched the Armistice parade. It was a good parade—no world beater, but adequate. And it was the city's first chance to pay tribute to the veterans of World War I and World War II on the first postwar anniversary of the Armistice. But what did Canton do?

It did what Canton always does at parades, at least parades in my time. It stood silently and watched the parade pass by. There was no applause, no cheering. We don't think all people who march in parades expect applause and cheers, but on Armistice anniversaries war veterans marching in a group do deserve and have a right to expect the plaudits of their fellow citizens.

Applause was invented to reach the consciousness of persons who have done something important or pleasing. That is why we applaud musicians, athletes and all kinds of professional performers. It is the onlooker's way of saying "Well done." Is there any group in America more deserving of a "Well done" than the men—and the women—who have bought peace for America at a fearful price?

Canton does not deliberately keep its hands in its pockets during parades. Our city's heart is in the right place, but you'd never know it. At the Navy Day parade this year, our heart was all right, but an otherwise fine parade would have been made a lot better by some cheering and applauding for the deserving people who marched in it.

We need someone to get the thing started. It could be done with a professional claque, but that would be corny. A couple hundred Cantonians could do it better, on a volunteer basis. The applause all of us feel like giving to our fellow citizens who have taken the trouble to march in parades wouldn't be hard to start. It might make the sore feet of the paraders hurt a lot less, too.

We hereby offer our two hands in a good cause. Next Memorial Day, or next Independence Day, or whenever the next chance comes, listen for the beat of the Twill flippers and join in. As a matter of fact, the Twill flippers were going last Monday night, maybe not very effectively. Maybe someone in the parade heard and thought to himself, "Well, at least one person is acting as if this parade is something to feel good about."

Our Roots Are in This Land...

HOW often you hear a man say of the land he owns . . . "When my son takes over, this will be a better place than when I got it!" Such a desire is natural to a father and splendidly American! Along with the expressed thought, there is a deep-rooted pride in continuous family ownership of productive land. So long as this ideal lives, agriculture will continue to be "the broad, enduring base upon which the entire U. S. economy rests"

There are many farm and ranch sons who stay in their families' business on the land. Some who do leave, however, might also stay, were there written business agreements between father and son Such agreements insure a fair return to both "partners" for the labor, capital and ability they contribute to their joint enterprise.

Practical father-and-son farm business agreements have been worked out and are proving their worth in actual practice on many of the nation's farms and ranches. The various forms of these agreements cannot be explained in detail here, but they are available and worth study. Excellent bulletins on this subject may be had by writing to the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois, for Circular No. 587; or to Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan, for Special Bulletin No. 330.

We at Swift & Company, know that a prosperous agriculture is the base of our prosperity and we are proud to say with you . . . "Our roots are in this land."

Soda Bill Sez:

. . . That a steer is like a sofa His frame is built on the range, his upholstery is put on in the Corn Belt, and he is often polished off in the city.

. . . That the important thing about a water-hole is water, and the important thing about a good farm is good farming.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

The livestock-and-meat industry is like an endless chain. The meat travels in one direction; from livestock producer to meat packer, to retail dealer, to consumer. And coming back in the opposite direction is money; from the meat purchaser to the storekeeper, to the meat packer, to the man who grows the livestock.

There must be motive power to keep that chain running, and that motive power is profit. It is profit that keeps ranchers and farmers producing livestock; profit keeps meat packers slaughtering, dressing and delivering meat to retailers; profit keeps retailers selling meat in their stores.

We at Swift & Company well know that a continuing loss anywhere along the line would mean that all of us would suffer. Thus, it is clearly to our own advantage to operate our end of the livestock-and-meat industry so efficiently that the money the consumer pays for meat shall cover all costs plus a sufficient profit for retailers and livestock producers, as well as for ourselves.

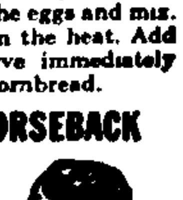
CATTLEMAN ON HORSEBACK



M. S. Hughes

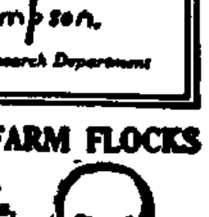
Next time you are at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago, if you see this big, jovial man sitting on a horse in the middle of a milling pen of cattle, that will be M. S. ("Si") Hughes, Swift's Head Cattle Buyer at Chicago.

'Way back in 1917, Si Hughes walked up to the Swift buyer in Kansas City and said, "Mister Stemm, I want a job." He got the job, and he's been with Swift ever since, except for a two-year army-hitch in World War I. Kansas City, St. Louis, Fort Worth, St. Joseph, Kansas City again, and finally Chicago —all added to his experience in judging the quality and yield percentages, grading, etc., of cattle.

In 1943 he was made Head Cattle Buyer for Swift & Company at the Chicago Yards. He has a staff of experienced cattle buyers [illegible] associated with him.

PHENOTHIAZINE FOR FARM FLOCKS

By RICHARD C. MILLER
Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station



All sheep in farm flocks—ewes, rams and lambs—should be dosed late this fall or early winter with phenothiazine and again in the spring after lambing time. From at least May 1, through September, the one-to-nine phenothiazine-salt mixture should be accessible in a covered feeder that protects it from the weather.

In Kentucky tests during the past three years, involving 30,000 breeding ewes, this program (in connection with generally recognized good farm flock practices, such as pasture rotation), eliminated the dosing of any lambs in more than 90 percent of the flocks, and made possible the growing out of even the latest lambs to good market weights and finish. The average increase in weight per lamb was nearly 25 pounds above normal pre-war average. The average annual cost for phenothiazine was less than 9 cents per ewe.

Have you heard about the new improved lard?

Swift & Company, after ten years of research and consumer tests, has developed a brand new product—Swift's Bland Lard. It has all the advantages of other high grade shortenings, plus the important qualities found only in lard. It will cause millions of American housewives to use more lard, and that's mighty important to hog producers.

Any improvement in pork products which boosts consumer demand (such as a superior lard) will have a supporting effect on live hog prices, because the [illegible] livestock is governed by what the [illegible] the meat and by-products.

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.
